

Where Can I Take E-Waste?

Electronic Waste or E-Waste is the term used to describe electronic products nearing the end of their "useful life." E-Waste can include:

- Televisions
- Microwaves
- Computers
- Printers
- VCRs
- Fax machines
- Electronic games
- Cell phones

To protect the environment, E-Waste should not be disposed of with your regular trash. Instead, it should be taken to an authorized e-waste disposal or collection site. Waste Management collects E-Waste at the following recycling and buyback centers:
