WM Sponsor Sustainability Night at HEB Center in Cedar Park

The Austin WM team sponsored and attended the WM Sustainability Night at the HEB Center in Cedar Park on February 8. The Texas Stars hockey team hosted the Rockford Ice Hogs, and the fans received a Texas Stars WM mouse pad made from recycled material! Fans could check out WM trucks stationed in the arena as they entered, and WM even participated in the ceremonial puck drop at the beginning of the game.

Overall, it was an incredible night showcasing HEB and WM's commitment to sustainability.

Spring Into Sustainability: Simple Ways to Make a Big Impact

As we welcome the beauty of spring, it's a perfect time to think about how we can help our planet thrive while enjoying the season's renewal. The warmer weather and longer days bring fresh opportunities to embrace sustainable practices that improve our environment and enrich our community. Let's explore a few ways to spring into sustainability this season!

1. Embrace Sustainable Gardening

This year, consider transforming your garden into a sustainable oasis. Opt for native plants requiring less water and maintenance, and choose eco-friendly fertilizers and pest control methods. If you have space, growing vegetables and herbs can reduce your carbon footprint, decrease food waste, and save money.

2. Spring Clean with a Green Twist

Use natural cleaning products instead of harsh chemicals. Try making your own with simple ingredients like vinegar, baking soda, and lemon. Decluttering? Donate gently used items to local charities or consider hosting a community swap event.

3. Water Conservation

Water conservation becomes increasingly crucial in central Texas as we enter the warmer months. Be mindful of how much water you use for gardening, washing cars, or filling pools. Use a rain barrel to collect runoff from your roof to water plants or gardens. And remember to adhere to any water restriction imposed by your local government.

By adopting just a few of these practices, we can all make a positive difference in the environment and inspire others to do the same. This spring, let's renew our commitment to protecting the planet, so we can enjoy its beauty for many seasons to come.
